FACTS:

Chinese Pharmacy, according to legend, stems from Shen Nung (about 2000 B.C.), an emperor who sought out and investigated the medicinal value of several hundred herbs. He tested many of them on himself, and wrote the first Pen T-Sao, or native herbal, recording 365 drugs. Shen Nung conceivably examined many herbs, barks, and roots brought in from the fields, swamps, and woods that are still recognized in Pharmacy today.
